Argos Risk Partners with ThirdPartyIQ to Deliver Continuous, Agentic Third-Party Risk Intelligence

Combination gives community and regional financial institutions earlier warning of third-party risk and reduces assessment burden, without replacing the systems they already run

MINNEAPOLIS – November 10, 2026 – Argos Risk, LLC, a leading provider of third-party risk intelligence solutions, today announced a strategic partnership with ThirdPartyIQ, the agentic intelligence platform for third-party risk. ThirdPartyIQ continuously gathers and interprets third-party evidence without questionnaires or manual follow-up and automatically turns risk signals into cited decisions for regulated organizations.

Supervisory expectations have moved from periodic review to continuous awareness. The 2023 Interagency Guidance on Third-Party Relationships directs institutions to monitor third-party relationships throughout the life of the engagement, and ongoing monitoring remains a recurring theme in examinations. Most still rely on an annual questionnaire.

Through the partnership, ThirdPartyIQ will integrate AR Surveillance™ as a continuous monitoring source within its platform, giving organizations always-on visibility into changes involving their third parties alongside ThirdPartyIQ's agentic analysis and decision support.

ThirdPartyIQ adds an intelligence layer above the systems organizations already run, rather than replacing a system of record. It collects and analyzes third-party documentation, continuously monitors changes across six risk domains, and turns those signals into evidence-based recommendations. Where an assessment is still required, the platform is designed to pre-fill most of it from evidence already gathered, so third parties confirm a short set of targeted questions instead of a full questionnaire. AI recommends; a person approves every decision, and every conclusion is cited and retained for examination.

Argos Risk's AR Surveillance provides continuous, multidimensional risk intelligence across financial health, cybersecurity, legal, compliance, sanctions and watchlists, and reputational risk.

"Organizations need timely, reliable information to understand how the companies they depend on are changing," said Lori Frank, President and CEO of Argos Risk. "ThirdPartyIQ is taking an innovative approach to applying AI to third-party risk management, and we are excited to work together to make continuous AR Surveillance monitoring part of that process."

“The warning signs before a third-party failure are almost always public months in advance. A missed reconciliation, a partner giving notice, layoffs at an anchor client. The annual questionnaire catches none of it,” said Carl McCauley, Co-Founder and CEO of ThirdPartyIQ. “With AR Surveillance feeding our platform, we work out whether a change matters to that institution, recommend specific actions with the evidence cited, and notify teams proactively. A person still makes every decision.”

The integration is in development, with initial financial institution design partners expected to begin using it in early Q4 2026.
